Foreword

It is with great pleasure and pride that I introduce this heterogeneous collection recording AUP professors' remarkable achievements of 2023. From scholarly monographs to chapters and peer-reviewed articles, our professors interrogate some of the most pressing issues in their fields today. But they also, as you will see on browsing these pages, produce creative work, commentary and reviews; they organize and animate workshops, exhibitions, conferences and talks, both at home and abroad. As grant recipients, they are able to pursue work in the field and an international exchange of ideas and materials.

Our faculty's collaboration with students is testimony to the strength of their pedagogy – an ongoing commitment to the diffusion of research not just through networks of peers but also in the classroom, on study trips, through co-curricular programming and independent study projects.

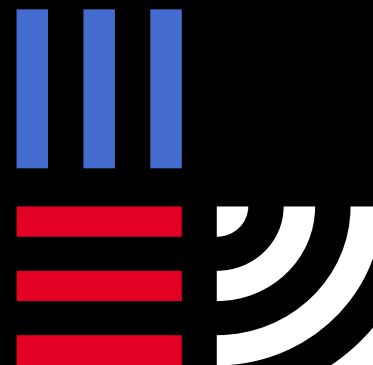

For the first time, this volume contains the ongoing activity of our Emeriti professors, whose contribution demonstrates that retirement from teaching does not mean retirement from intellectual life. The AUP community is broad and diverse and, as this volume goes to show, infinitely rich in its generosity of thought and range of output.

Dr. Hannah Westley
Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs
